

A Silent Threat

Gelatine is used liberally in a variety of products. Hence, it can be viewed as a silent threat to certain consumers. Due to religious obstacles and concerns, some consumers may not be able to consume products containing gelatine because it is NON-HALAL.

NON-HALAL gelatine is gelatine derived from pigs or animals not slaughtered according to Islamic Law. That is why it is important to be able to identify the products of HALAL gelatine and products in recent times, fish gelatine have been considered as a viable source to solve this problem. Nevertheless, even HALAL gelatine can become contaminated, if it is manufactured in the same facilities as NON-HALAL gelatine.

The Sources of Gelatine

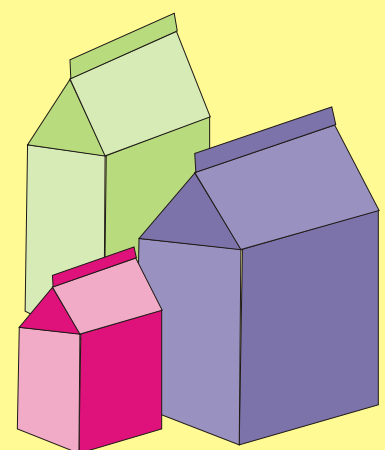

15% Contribution

80% Contribution

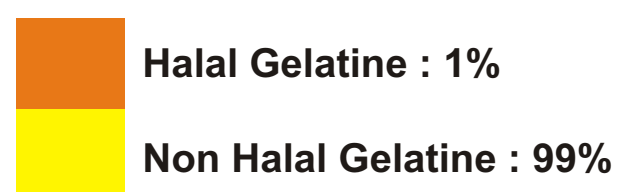

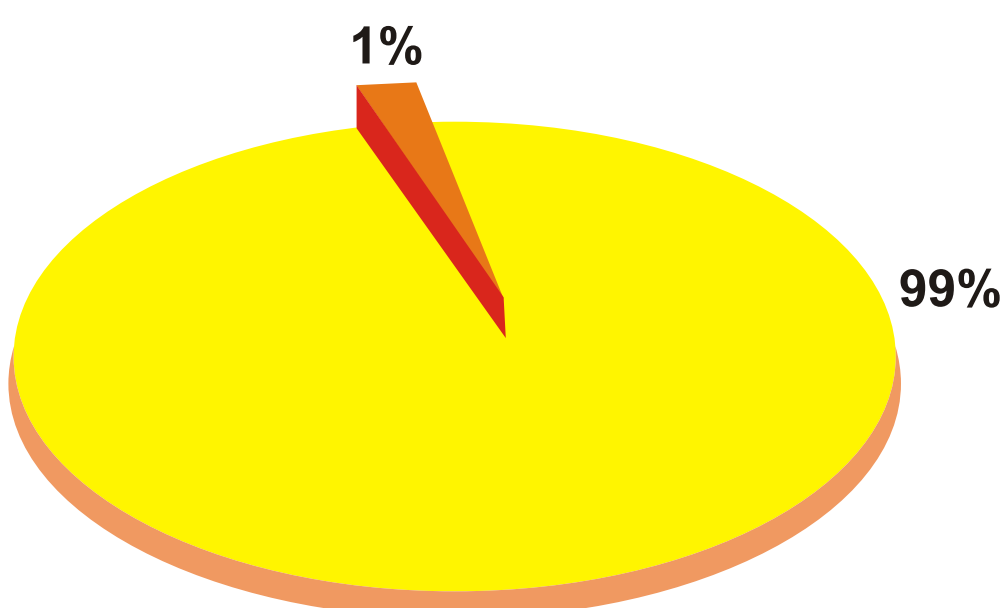

5% Contribution

GELATINE

The global production of gelatine is more than 330,000 mil tons annually. However, only 1% gelatine produced is HALAL gelatine.

TOTAL : 330,000 my